

Discussion Questions Week 4: Authority in Every Sphere

- 1. When you think about the “house” of your life, which room feels easiest to open to Jesus — and which room feels hardest? Why?
- 2. How does the truth that Jesus is already Lord — exalted, enthroned, reigning — change the way you think about surrender?
- 3. Which line from the sermon’s “You can have my... but not my...” list hit closest to home? What does that reveal about your spiritual formation?
- 4. When in your life have you experienced Jesus’ gentleness in a place where you expected judgment? How might that memory help you open a new door?
- 5. Which of the five spheres (Home, Work/School, Neighbor/Civic, Habits/Body, Money/Generosity) feels most aligned with Christ’s lordship in your life today? Which feels least aligned? What’s one step you could take in that area?
- 6. How does fear (fear of change, fear of exposure, fear of losing control) shape the parts of our lives we keep locked? What would surrender look like in the face of that fear?
- 7. In what ways do habits disciple us, either toward Jesus or away from Him? Which habit this week is shaping your heart most powerfully?
- 8. If someone watched your daily life for one week, what would they conclude about who (or what) is truly lord of your schedule, finances, words, or attitudes?
- 9. Where do you sense the Holy Spirit knocking today? What is one “next right step” toward surrender in that specific area?
- 10. Read Philippians 2:9-11 together. What does it mean for “every knee” to bow in your small world: your home, your workplace, your school, your neighborhood? How does that shape the way you want to live this week?
